Start low and go slow, doctor cautions on cannabis

DARREN LUM

Staff Reporter

A few weeks before the Canadian government passed the Cannabis Act, making the purchase and consumption of the drug legal, CARP's Haliburton branch held an information session at the fish hatchery.

There was a packed room of interested people for guest speaker Dr. Norm Bottum, who has been a doctor in Haliburton County since 1987.

Bottum said he has been open to working with his patients in using cannabis products, as long as his care abides by the Hippocratic oath to "do no harm."

His talk on Sept. 30 included a PowerPoint presentation on cannabis treatment effectiveness, current uses and recommendations outlined by the College of Family Physicians of Canada, followed by a question and answer period.

Cannabis is comprised of two natural compounds, the psychoactive compound THC, or tetrahydrocannabinol, and CBD, or cannabidiol, including more than 60 other inactive ingredients.

THC provides the euphoric feeling associated with cannabis while CBD provides consumers with pain relief.

There are varying levels of THC and CBD in every product. Cannabis can be consumed in myriad ways, including through edibles, oils, or inhaled in smoke.

Bottum's main message to the audience, which was composed mostly of seniors, was to start slowly with a low dosage and to monitor the effects closely because everyone is physiologically different.

"Starting low and going slow," he said.

This sentiment of low dosage is echoed by Health Canada, which also recommends to choose products with a low amount of THC and an equal or higher amount of CBD; avoid combining cannabis with alcohol and/or other substances; avoid smoking cannabis, avoid frequent use and don't drive or go to work impaired.

According to Health Canada, cannabis affects attention, memory and learning. It is not recommended for anyone under 25 because the brain is still in a process of development.

Bottum recommended consulting your doctor and said he's told patients to call the company producing the product to explain what they want to use it for. What could work for one person may not work or could harm another person, he said.

He knows patients with anxiety issues who have been helped, but also those whose anxiety was worsened.

A part of the problem is how there has been very little formal testing with credible sample sizes, which needs to be in the thousands – something similar to what is done with pharmaceutical drug trials.

Much of the current information related to cannabis is related to personal experiences.

In his experience as a doctor, working in emergency,

Dr. Norm Bottum speaks with a woman following the CARP Haliburton chapter meeting on cannabis on Sunday, Sept. 30 at the Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association fish hatchery in Haliburton. Bottum's advice to the audience, who may be interested in trying medical marijuana or related products, was to monitor for response as every person is different. /DARREN LUM Staff he has seen very little misuse.

"I've been very thankful I haven't seen a lot," he said.

However, he didn't discount that misuse could happen without needing emergency care.

Bottum said some patients don't realize how expensive it can be. In terms of safety it's more important to know the source of the cannabis rather than focusing on saving money.

"There have been cases where marijuana [purchased on the street] has been laced with other drugs, whether it was cocaine or fentanyl or something on those lines so certainly you want to know where it's coming from. It may be worth the cost to get a quality product," he said.

Other areas of concern is who is predisposed to be adversely affected.

Bottum cited statistics outlined by the College of Family Physicians of Canada, which state that cannabis intoxication increases the risk of fatal car collisions and that users should not drive for at least four hours after inhalation and for eight hours following use if euphoria is experienced. Impairment can last up to 24 hours for anyone who requires the ability to drive or perform activities requiring alertness.

Under the guidelines for authorizing dried cannabis for chronic pain or anxiety: dried cannabis is not appropriate for patients under the age of 25; those who have a personal history or strong family history of psychosis; those who have a current or past substance use disorder; have cardiovascular disease; have respiratory disease; or are pregnant, planning to become pregnant or breastfeeding.

It "should be authorized with caution" in patients who have a concurrent active mood or anxiety disorder, smoke tobacco, have risk factors for cardiovascular disease and are heavy users of alcohol or taking high doses of opioids or benzodiazepines or other sedating medications prescribed or available over the counter.

During the presentation there was a question about whether cannabis consumption could become addictive.

"People can become dependent. There's a physical addiction where [if] you don't get it you have a withdrawal. People can become dependent on Tylenol or sleeping pills, or cellphones for sure," Bottum said.

The legal age for cannabis consumption in Ontario is 19 years or older.

The limit for growing cannabis is four plants per residence (not per person). An individual can have a maximum of 30 grams (about one ounce) of dried cannabis in public. According to the government of Ontario website, cannabis can be purchased online through the Ontario Cannabis Store (OCS.ca). Consumers will be required to verify their age to accept delivery and no packages will be left unattended at the door. You are permitted to purchase up to 30 grams (about one ounce) of dried recreational cannabis at one time for personal use. Currently edibles and concentrates are not available for purchase.

Despite anecdotal success stories, the verdict is still out about the efficacy of medical marijuana, Bottum said. He cautioned that cannabis edibles can have delayed effects, which could lead to over consumption.

He said it's not expected producers will provide data on marijuana, but he hopes government and universities will fund research so the public can "use these products or start to use safely."

Bottum said there is still a lot to learn, which applies to everyone from patients to doctors looking to help.

"We're learning. We're learning from you. We're learning from the College of Family Physicians. We're going to learn from other research as time goes on so we're all going to become more knowledgeable. Let's do it together. Let's do it safely and I don't think anybody that I know from my group is going to try and stop you from trying something if you do it safely," he said.

Getting to know blue-green algae

SUE TIFFIN

Staff Reporter

Though cyanobacteria have been around for over 2.5 billion years, we're still learning about how best to deal with accumulations of the photosynthetic bacteria, groupings known as blue-green algae blooms.

Richard Ovcharovich, manager of environmental health for the HKPR District Health Unit, presented about blooms, a seasonal phenomenon, at the board of health meeting on Oct. 18.

Cyanobacteria occur in freshwater, marine environments, Antarctic lakes, hot springs and in damp soil around the world, including in Haliburton County.

The blue-green algae is not actually algae, but rather photosynthetic bacteria that can be found throughout the water column, and can in favourable conditions – a lot of sunlight, warm temperatures, no wind, calm water – pose a threat to human safety.

Blooms can cause reduced water clarity, loss of deep water oxygen, a foul taste, a strong odour of either newly mowed grass or rotting garbage and may produce toxins.

"As the conditions improve for their survival, they'll start proliferating," said Ovcharovich.

As water becomes cloudy, it's necessary to take precautions when swimming, as clarity becomes an issue. At this stage of a bloom, considered category one, drinking precautions don't generally need to be taken, but anyone using water from lakes, rivers or shoreline wells needs to have a proper water treatment system, or in fact a treatment train, in place: filtration, disinfection and some type of polishing device or polishing film.

Category two brings greater concern. "This is where the water kind of turns pea-soup green," said Ovcharovich.

It's not recommended for people to swim in affected water, because it's difficult to see anyone under the water, and also some individuals might have symptoms if toxins are present. Symptoms of exposure to toxins might include headache, fever, diarrhea, abdominal pain, nausea, vomiting, itchy, irritated eyes and mild rash.

"When this happens, it's recommended they don't use the water," said Ovcharovich.

As cells begin to die off, a category three bloom is created.

"As they die, and float to the top, they create this crust of scum over top," he said. "Sometimes it looks like paint spilled all over the top of the water column."

Fish caught from the area of an algae bloom are not recommended to be consumed, especially their internal organs.

At this point, surface water should always be treated for bacteria and parasites, and water should not be used for drinking, cooking, rinsing fruits or vegetables or washing dishes, and should not be deemed safe if boiled – instead this process evaporates the water, stabilizes the toxin and can actually concentrate it. Dissolved cyanobacteria toxin may affect shoreline wells. Municipal drinking water, however, can be consumed.

Blooms should be reported to the Ministry of Environment, Conservation and Parks, which recommends sending photos along to quicken the assessment and identification.

The agency will confirm, after initial notification, whether or not blue-green algae is present. If so, samples are collected and sent to a lab – but lab identification can take up to three days, while toxicology results can take up to five days – days in which the public might be exposed, or the bloom might relocate or dissipate. Because of this lag time, Ovcharovich said visual observation can be most beneficial.

Factors contributing to cyanobacterial blooms include storm water runoff, over fertilized and manicured lawns, malfunctioning or faulty septic systems, and accumulation of organic materials from aquatic and land plants.

Education and awareness campaigns in Haliburton County have urged lakefront property owners to help by using phosphate free detergents, maintaining naturally vegetated buffer strips along shorelines, and ensuring that septic systems are in good working order.

Ovcharovich noted in his presentation that more research is required to determine the effectiveness of private water treatment systems, understand toxin residual in the area after a bloom is gone and determine the size of a bloom that is of concern.

"We got into a situation back in 2011, when we had the big bloom in Sturgeon Lake," he said. "We identified it, and issued a water use advisory, because the bloom was present, and then the rescinding of that advisory was very difficult to do. Because the bloom pops up in one area, dissipates from that area, and you don't know where it's going to pop up again."

"That had a significant effect on the recreational industry in the City of Kawartha Lakes. It scared a lot of people and it wasn't as worth it as we thought it would be. At that time we were trying to do the right thing and protect everybody from everything, and in retrospect we learned that there were better ways to do this. It's got to be a practical approach to protecting public health."

The public can report potential bloom occurrences to the MECP Spills Action Centre at 1-866-663-8477. Further information can be found at www.hkpr.on.ca.

The episode description for the Wilberforce show makes note of the recent loss of the sole bank in the hamlet, and loss of industry of years gone by, but also of the implementation and tourism success of geocaching, a sort of outdoor scavenger hunt that the town has made its own.

"Wilberforce, Ontario, may have lost its industry and its only bank," it reads, "But it still has its natural outdoor beauty and a community that refuses to give up. Now, thanks to an outdoor game with a wide reach and international appeal, Wilberforce is back on the map."

The show can provide a tourism boost after being featured to a big audience. A map on the CBC Still Standing website offers fans the chance to route and plan a road trip based on towns featured in each of the four seasons. More than 65,000 fans have liked the Still Standing Facebook page.

The community is hosting a town screening of the Wilberforce Still Standing episode on Tuesday, Oct. 30 starting at 7 p.m. at the Lloyd Watson Centre at 2249 Loop Road in Wilberforce. Viewers at home can tune in to CBC, the CBC TV streaming app or online at cbc.ca/watch on Oct. 30 at 8 p.m.

Improved communication, goal setting among priorities

Ward 4 was won by John Smith, who received 1,203 votes. Aaron Walker, who was also campaigning for that job, received 375.

Walt McKechnie, the incumbent in Ward 5, kept his seat in a close race with Glenn Scott. McKechnie received 649 votes. Scott received 635.

Of 13,424 registered voters, 6,059 cast a ballot – just more than 45 per cent.

Andrea Roberts said she thought voters were looking for change and a different direction.

"I'm excited to lead the next council," she said. "I'm thrilled with all the people that got elected."

One of her priorities will be improving communication – part of that with seasonal residents. To that end she said she wants to hold town hall meetings at least once per year.

Planning and goal setting will be another priority when the new council meets, she said.

On the topic of Murray Fearrey, who has led Dysart et al for decades, Roberts said she admired him and commended him for dedicating his life to public service.

"I didn't run against him; I ran for myself," she said.

She said Fearrey had called her to wish her well.

In Algonquin Highlands, where two races were contested, unofficial results show Julia Shortreed winning Ward 1 and Jennifer Dailloux winning Ward 3. Carol Moffatt was acclaimed to the position of mayor; Lisa Barry and Liz Daniels were acclaimed as councillors for Ward 2.

As of press time, results were not in for Highlands East or Minden Hills.

See our website haliburtonecho.ca and next week's paper for additional coverage of the election.

Growing culinary tourism in Haliburton County

CHAD INGRAM

Staff Reporter

The following are brief reports of items discussed during an Oct. 10 meeting of the Haliburton County tourism advisory committee.

Committee members heard a presentation from Rebecca Mackenzie, president of the Ontario Culinary Tourism Alliance about the continued and growing importance of food-based tourism in the province.

"It isn't just a dining experience," Mackenzie said, adding food-based tourism can include experiences such as visiting microbreweries, wineries or orchards.

Mackenzie was promoting the CTA's Feast On certification, which recognizes establishments for using Ontario-grown and processed ingredients.

"This is good for the economy, good for our farming industry and the food processing industry," she said.

To qualify, businesses must go through an audit process, demonstrating they meet the threshold for Ontario-based ingredients.

Currently in Haliburton County, Carnarvon's Rhubarb restaurant is the sole Feast On-certified dining establishment.

"I'm happy to hear the standards are high; it means that it's meaningful," said Minden Hills Mayor Brent Devolin. "If it was easy to get in, everybody would be on the train."

The county is hiring a food tourism coordinator on a contract to create a couple of major food-based programs. The county obtained provincial funding for the creation of the contract position.

Marketing the county in 2019

Tourism director Amanda Virtanen presented committee members with a draft marketing plan for 2019, incorporating feedback from stakeholders and a survey issued by the tourism department. Virtanen will be seeking more input from stakeholders on the draft, before bringing it back to the committee once again.

"We're going to focus in 2019 on enhancing our Google presence," Virtanen said, adding that while the Haliburton Highlands Twitter and Facebook accounts have significant followings, she also plans to focus on boosting its numbers on social media photo-sharing app Instagram in the upcoming year.

"I'd like to increase that 20-fold," she said.

The Haliburton Highlands Facebook page has more than 21,000 likes, and its Twitter account nearly 5,000 followers. Its Instagram audience is currently fewer than 1,000.

Virtanen said she would also like to increase the number of videos on the Haliburton Highlands YouTube channel.

"I'd love to see more videos on there from across the county," she said. Positive Media is currently creating an "Ask a Local" video series for the county.

The county will continue to populate its new tourism website with user-generated imagery and continue to tailor activities towards the "travelling consumer," that being someone who travels 40 kilometres or more to a destination, perhaps just for a day trip. Given the county's size, residents themselves can be travelling consumers within their own community.

The tourism department's target audience is represented by a hypothetical couple named Karen and Jake, a youngish couple with disposable income, seeking an authentic experience and who like to share their adventures via social media.

"We're not just focused on Karen and Jake," Virtanen said. "We're able to use Karen and Jake as conduits to other secondary markets."

There are also plans to enhance the Hike Haliburton festival with a snowshoeing event, that would take place in 2020.

No go for CoHo

Committee members were to receive samples of limited edition clothing produced by CoHo Apparel. The county and the company have been in conversation for a number of months and while the committee has seen images of the proposed merchandise, members said they were disappointed that physical samples of the clothing had not come to fruition.

Councillors on the committee agreed that the issue of a new limited edition clothing line would be left to the new county council.

Forever in our memories: Creighton Feir

To those who ran

CONGRATULATIONS to all who took a risk and put their name forward for a seat on municipal council. You gave us your ideas, energy and experience and provided us with choice in what our communities will look like over the next four years.

For those who garnered the most votes and will now take a seat at the council table: we are counting on you to take care of not only our tax dollars, but also some of our most cherished programs and spaces. You're now setting policy that will affect our parks and arenas, the health of our lakes and the safety of our streets. You are in a position to create housing and transportation, build a rec centre, put in sidewalks, fund youth programming, prepare us for climate change and so much more.

Municipal government doesn't get enough credit for the heavy lifting it does and the critical role it plays in community – and you are now an important decision maker in that government.

To those who did not win, an equally heartfelt thanks to you and a plea: don't go away.

We need you.

No matter how you fared in the polls, the very fact that you stepped up and took a risk to improve your municipality means you've got passion for this place.

We watched over the last several months as you built websites and launched social media accounts, answered questions from the newspaper and interest groups, and took to the stage during all-candidates meetings. You knocked on doors and put your face on posters, literally putting yourself out there for judgment.

If this election was anything like all other elections, you likely also endured hearing misinformation about yourself or your ideas through some sort of broken-telephone-style gossip. You likely had to clarify your positions again and again. People likely said things about you that were unfair and unkind – at best.

But even if you're feeling let down right now, please don't back away from public life.

We need people who legitimately care about the health of this county to contribute to committees and boards, to pitch in at fundraisers and local gatherings.

Use your energy and talents to improve other areas of life. Join the arts council or the chamber of commerce, sign up to make sets for one of the theatre groups or raise fish at the hatchery. Raise money with one of the service clubs or help the HHHS Foundation and auxiliaries make a new purchase for our hospitals. Join an environmental group and push for a strong climate change policy for the Highlands. Collect coats for SIRCH or provisions for the food banks.

And don't rule out running again.

People vote for specific candidates for a host of reasons and not winning doesn't mean there isn't support for your ideas. Things could be different next time.

Thank you for being part of the election – stick around. This community needs you.

More good stuff

ON FRIDAY EVENING I had the pleasure of attending the Haliburton County Folk's Society concert at the Minden United Church. It was a full house from what I could tell.

The first half of the show were two young performers, Liv Cazzola and Braden Phelan, and they are called Tragedy Ann.

I had never heard of them, and was so delighted to hear them sing and play together. They are young (like 24 or 25ish) and they write beautiful stories and then use their guitars, ukulele, accordion and yes, a saw, to perform their work.

At one point they invited the audience to sing along with them (so beautiful in a church with great acoustics) as they performed "All I Have To Do is Dream" by the Everly Brothers.

Liv pulled out a hand saw and a wooden bow and proceeded to create really interesting sounds with it.

It is just so refreshing and inspiring to see this young talent and the creativity that they bring to their performance.

Their merchandise table sold their latest CDs, but also T-shirts they make from collecting used shirts from second hand stores. They sold pillow cases that went with a delightful song about how s/he always falls asleep when they watch a movie.

And they had loose leaf tea that they had someone blend to go with listening to their newest CD.

Liv and Braden said several times how grateful they were to be invited to play and how they hope to return. I find it fascinating to watch how young people carve their ways in the world with their unique talents and perspectives and creativity.

After Tragedy Ann, Treasa Levasseur and Sean Cotton performed and they brought the roof down. Their voices and stories filled the church.

The whole evening was incredible. The Haliburton County Folk Society has more concerts coming up, and there are several house concerts this fall as well. Check them out at www.haliburtonfolk.com.

The music just makes our lives so much richer.

On another arts note, our DH3 (Dance Happens Here) committee is working on two really exciting projects. We love what we do because we don't have to organize the event, or even sell the tickets.

We just add dance and other performing arts into existing events.

We are absolutely thrilled to be bringing Noriko Yamamoto back to perform before one of the movies at the Haliburton International Film Festival, Nov. 2 to 4.

We will also be presenting Starlight, a local jazz duo who will perform a piece called "Stella." And there will be some local dances from Heritage Ballet. Movies with a theme of "Being the Hero of Your Own Life," dance and music together. It doesn't get any better.

Our second project is that we are working with the Fashion Fallies (Nov. 9) committee and we are bringing some really exciting performances that will be done throughout the evening.

Some local and some from out of town. I guarantee it will delight. It seems that November is just another amazing month in the county of Haliburton!

We are very lucky. Hope to see you at these events.

Playing doctor

“WHAT SEEMS TO BE the problem?” I asked in my most detached medical voice.

Jenn replied with a series of sneezes and then blew her nose so loudly that I thought my car alarm went off.

“Uh huh,” I replied, as I reset my hair.

Folks who know me, know that I don’t usually use such technical terms as “folks” or professional jargon such as “uh huh.” But that’s only because they have never seen me take on the role of Steve Galea, A.D., which stands for Amateur Doctor.

For those of you who don’t know what that is, it is exactly the same as a real doctor, or M.D. as we say in the business, except for the fact that an M.D. spends a lot of time going to doctoring school and such, while an A.D. fast tracks it by binge-watching Doogie Houser M.D. and lots of Tylenol Cold and Flu commercials. Also, we buy our stethoscopes at the dollar store, along with all our other doctoring supplies.

I looked at Jenn once again and asked her to describe her symptoms.

“I hab a coad,” she snapped.

At this point, I did what any competent A.D. would do. I looked up coad on the internet, which it turns out stands for Chronic Obstructive Airway Disease.

Any A.D. worth his or her salt would have responded with, “Drink plenty of fluid or take two Aspirin and call me in the morning.”

Lucky for Jenn though, I knew better. So I left the room for five inexplicable minutes and returned, just like a real doctor.

“Why are you wearing an apron and a mask and carrying a toolbox?” she asked.

“Patient still maintains a healthy sense of curiosity and good observational skills,” I said to the recording device on my iPhone.

“I’d be less curious if you weren’t wearing a Black Panther Halloween mask and an apron that says ‘Kiss the Cook!’” she muttered and then sniffled once again.

“I’m about to commence some serious doctoring!” I said. “Don’t be nervous.”

And then I pulled out my big rubber mallet.

“It’s reflex testing time!” I said.

Seconds later, I spoke into my recording device again: “Patient’s reflexes exceptional; doctor’s not so much....”

As I rubbed my knee, I then noted several obvious symptoms such as sneezing, sniffing, runny nose and her clutching some cold and flu medication.

“Miss Watt,” I said, “I’ve got some good news and some bad news. Which would you like to hear first?”

“You mean you being here isn’t the bad news?” she said, probably due to deliriousness.

“OK,” I began, “the good news is that you have a cold.”

“What’s the bad news?” she said.

“There is no cure,” I announced somberly. “I give you 60 to 70 years, tops. In the meantime, I suggest you drink plenty of fluids and take your cold and flu medication as prescribed.”

I then handed her my bill since none of this is covered by OHIP or her medical insurance. She then crumpled it up and said, “Pass that box of Kleenex and make me some chicken noodle soup or I will sneeze all over you.”

I walked away into the kitchen and smiled.

Then I pulled out my recorder and noted: “Patient making a remarkable recovery after receiving excellent medical care. Will serve her chicken noodle soup and then hide the rubber mallet after she dozes off...”

Research improved stroke survivors' lives

To the Editor,

Monday, Oct. 29 is World Stroke Day. This year’s theme is “Up Again After Stroke.” Stroke is a leading cause of death around the world. There are 80 million survivors worldwide and 50 million permanently disabled.

However, due to extensive research in many areas of stroke, the understanding of the need of immediate rehabilitation, and the studies re: causes of stroke, more survivors are leading lives to the best of their ability. Caregivers are being recognized as in need of support to prevent caregiver burnout! Go to the World Stroke Day website www.world-strokecampaign.org to read stories of stroke survivors. Eg. “His stroke changed our life but not our love,” “Stroke tried to pull us down but we got up again,” “His stroke disrupts his balance, but we’re still head over heels.”

The Haliburton Highlands Stroke Support Group is a fun bunch of stroke survivors and caregivers who meet the third Thursday of each month, 10 a.m. to noon, to share their stories, encourage each other in their journey, hear speakers on health issues, do brain exercises (quizzes, games, etc.) and exercise according to their ability. We meet in Hyland Crest Seniors Residence, Minden in the Fire-side Lounge, wheelchair accessible. We are raising the Stroke Recovery Flag, March of Dimes Canada on Friday, Oct. 26 at 10 a.m. to fly until Oct. 29 at the Minden Municipal Township Office. Join us to help celebrate World Stroke Day.

How to improve winter fuel economy

Many motorists notice that their vehicles seem to get less kilometres per litre in cold weather than in warm weather. That's not a trick of the brain, as studies have shown that cars do, in fact, have poorer fuel in economy in cold weather.

According to the United States Department of Energy, fuel economy tests have indicated that, when driving in short-trip city driving, a conventional gasoline car's gas mileage is about 12 per cent lower at -6.7 C than it would be at 25 C. The disparity is even greater in hybrid vehicles, which can see their fuel economy decline by roughly 34 per cent when driven at -6.7 C. Before drivers can understand how to improve their winter fuel economy, it's beneficial to learn why cold weather has such an adverse effect on a car's fuel economy.

A host of factors combine to reduce fuel economy in the winter. When temperatures dip, engine oil and other drive-line fluids also get colder, and this increases engine and transmission friction. That forces the vehicle to work harder and use more fuel. An engine also takes longer to reach its most fuel-efficient temperature when the weather outside is cold. This won't have too great an impact on fuel efficiency when taking long trips, but the shorter the trip the less economical the vehicle's use of fuel will be, as a shorter trip means the vehicle is spending a larger percentage of the overall drive at a less fuel efficient temperature.

Another reason fuel economy suffers in the winter is the necessities and certain creature comforts drivers need when driving in the cold weather. Windshield defrosters and vehicle heating systems use a substantial amount of power, and that usage forces the vehicle to expend more energy and use more fuel. And while many drivers consider heated seats one of the greatest automotive inventions known to man, those seats also use up a lot of power that negatively impacts fuel economy.

But factors outside the vehicle also impact its fuel economy in the winter. For example, colder temperatures decrease tire pressure, and that increases roll resistance, which means the car must work harder and use more fuel to get down the street than it would if it were riding on fully inflated tires in the summertime.

Cold air also is more dense than warm air, and that increases aerodynamic drag on the vehicle, which then needs to use more fuel to counter the increased drag.

So what can be done to improve fuel economy in the winter? Fortunately, drivers can take several steps to do just that.

- Park the vehicle in a garage. Leaving your car in the driveway in the winter means you might have to dig the vehicle out come winter snowstorms. But that's not the only inconvenience of parking your vehicle outside in the winter, as doing so can adversely affect its fuel economy. When possible, park the car in the garage, as this increases the initial temperature of the engine, engine oil, drive-line fluids, and the vehicle's cabin. This can shorten the time it takes for the engine to reach its most fuel-efficient temperature while decreasing the engine and transmission friction that negatively impacts fuel efficiency.

- Disregard conventional wisdom. Conventional wisdom has long suggested that idling a vehicle for several minutes will warm up the engine more quickly than simply driving. But many vehicle manufacturers now recommend that drivers idle their vehicles for no more than 30 seconds, noting that idling the car unnecessarily wastes fuel and that driving the vehicle is the fastest way to warm up its engine. If you must warm up the vehicle, stick to the now widely accepted guideline that recommends idling for no more than half a minute.

- Monitor tire pressure. As noted, colder temperatures decrease tire pressure, so drivers should monitor their tire pressure regularly throughout winter to keep their vehicle safe and to ensure they are not wasting fuel.

- Remove the roof rack. Summer adventurers who love tying their mountain bike or kayak to their vehicles' roof rack before heading off to explore parts unknown should remove those roof racks when the temperatures dip. Roof racks increase wind resistance and decrease fuel economy, so remove them during the off-seasons.

Fuel economy will almost certainly decrease when the mercury drops. But drivers can employ a number of strategies to make their vehicles more fuel efficient in cold weather.

Four ways to extend the life of your vehicle

Drivers can protect their investments in their vehicles – and get greater returns on those investments – by prioritizing maintenance and taking simple yet effective steps to extend the lives of their cars and trucks.

1. Drive defensively.

Aggressive driving is dangerous and can have adverse effects on a vehicle. When driving, always obey posted speed limits and avoid accelerating and decelerating quickly. Such a style of driving can strain vehicle engines and drive trains while negatively affecting fuel efficiency and wearing down brakes, states the National Institute of Automotive Service Excellence.

2. Maintain a clean vehicle.

Car washes do more than just clean a vehicle. Routine washing and waxing can remove dirt that, if left on a vehicle, can gradually scratch paint and contribute to chips and rust. Over time, rust can affect vehicle performance and may even compromise the safety of drivers and their passengers if bad enough frame rust affects structural integrity. Routine washing also can remove road salt from vehicles. Salt can build up during winter when roads are routinely treated during and after snowstorms. Road salt can be extremely corrosive and, if left unmoved from a vehicle, can contribute to rust that ultimately can cause extensive damage to a vehicle.

3. Routinely check tire pressure.

Many of today's new vehicles alert drivers when tire pressure is low. Drivers should not ignore such warnings, as low tire pressure can affect engine performance by forcing it to work harder than should be necessary. Engines that are forced to work harder than they need to likely won't last as long as those that run efficiently. Low tire pressure also negatively affects fuel efficiency, potentially costing drivers substantial amounts of money over time. Drivers of older vehicles without tire pressure alerts should routinely check tire pressure and keep tires adequately inflated. Vehicles that are slow to accelerate from resting positions may not have enough air in their tires.

4. Adhere to maintenance guidelines.

Drivers may have heard that today's vehicles were built to go longer periods of time between oil changes and tune-ups than the vehicles of yesteryear. But drivers should still adhere to manufacturer-recommended maintenance guidelines. Upon buying new vehicles, drivers should read their owners' manuals to determine recommended maintenance intervals, and stick to those intervals for as long as they have their vehicles.

Cognizant of the sizable investments they're making when buying new vehicles, many drivers want to get as many miles out of their vehicles as possible. Simple maintenance and safe driving habits can go a long way toward keeping vehicles on the road for years to come.

Winter prep checklist

Fall is a time to prepare homes, vehicles and even our psyches for the arrival of winter. To get your car cold-weather ready, check and repair these items now.

- ✓ Tire pressure can drop in cold weather. When tires are underinflated, you lose fuel efficiency, so monitor and maintain tire pressure throughout the winter.
- ✓ Switch from all-season to winter tires. Much as you wear winter boots to provide more traction and protection than sneakers, so should you equip your vehicle with tires that will stand up to winter terrain.
- ✓ Check on the status of your battery and its starting power. Cold weather can put more strain on a car battery. A battery that is already weak may not turn over when you need it most.
- ✓ Replace worn wiper blades and upgrade to a windshield fluid that is rated for subzero temperatures. Each of these items will improve visibility when winter precipitation is making its presence felt.
- ✓ Schedule an oil change at the beginning of winter. Dirty oil can hinder cold-weather starts and, if coupled with low coolant levels, can make it difficult for the engine to turn over.

✓ Keep jumper cables, a battery booster pack and warning cones in your vehicle. These can come to the rescue if your battery dies and you're stranded on the side of the road.

✓ While you're stocking the trunk or cargo bed, include a shovel, sand or cat litter, a flashlight, an ice scraper, water, and a blanket. These are good emergency items to have in the event your car breaks down in the winter. You can dig your tires out of a snow drift with the shovel and apply litter to increase traction. The blanket will come in handy if you have to sit in a cold car for a while awaiting roadside service.

✓ Consider taking a winter driving course. Icy, snowy conditions completely change the defensive tactics needed to navigate the roads. A prepared driver is one who is more likely to avoid accidents and make it home safely.

Savage trial deferred to November

SUE TIFFIN
Staff Reporter

William Savage’s trial has been deferred.
On Oct. 19, an application was granted for the adjournment of the Savage trial, which was to be held Oct. 22.

Savage is a Fenelon Falls man charged with the murder of David Palmer, whose remains were found in the Haliburton area in 2015.
The matter will now return to court on Nov. 13 at 2 p.m. in Newmarket for a pre-trial. A trial date is not scheduled at this time.

Savage was charged with first-degree murder on Oct. 26, 2016, in connection with the death of Palmer, a 47-year-old Bowmanville man whose remains were found in May 2015. At the time of the arrest, OPP confirmed that Savage and Palmer were known to each other. Palmer was last seen on Oct. 2, 2015 outside of Pontypool and his vehicle was found on Oct. 14 near Spruce Lake Trail.

Carol Off to speak at Pinestone this Sunday

On Sunday, CBC Radio’s Carol Off of As It Happens will be the featured speaker at the Friends of the Haliburton County Public Library’s Gala and Silent Auction.
Aside from her work on CBC, Off recently released a book called All We Leave Behind, detailing the true story of an Afghan family’s escape from a murderous warlord.
The story involves Asad Aryubwal, who Off met when reporting in Afghanistan in 2002. He was featured in their documentary, speaking out about the misdeeds of one of the warlords. That act put Aryubwal’s family in a dangerous situation, forcing them to flee their home.
Off found herself having to ignore journalistic norms to help the family, navigating bureaucracy to bring them to Canada.

All We Leave Behind was winner of the British Columbia National Award for Canadian Non-Fiction and a finalist for several others, including the Governor General’s Literary Award.
You can see Carol Off on Sunday, Oct. 28 at Pinestone Resort and Conference Centre. The silent auction begins at 1 p.m., author’s presentation at 2 p.m. The event is a fundraiser for Friends of the Haliburton County Public Library and the cost is $25 (cash or cheque only). For tickets, contact Joan Hawley at 705-457-1789, email folhaliburton@gmail.com or pick them up at Master’s Bookstore.

Thunder strike Hawks

Red Hawks varsity girls' rugby player Olivia Villamere carries the ball down the sideline against St. Mary's Thunder defenders during Kawartha Girls Rugby League action on Tuesday, Oct. 16 at the Gary G. Thunder strike down Hawks at home

DARREN LUM

Staff Reporter

There was plenty to cheer about during the last home game for the Red Hawks varsity girls' rugby team. From the strong offensive charges to the goal line defensive stops. However the visiting Thunder of St. Mary's came through scoring in the final minutes to win 22-17 during Kawartha Varsity Girls' League rugby action on Tuesday, Oct. 16.

They scored a try just before the second half and then again late in the game, erasing the joy that was felt for much of the game for the Hawks and their supporters.

The Hawks had controlled and led much of the game, as they jumped to a very early lead with a try from Senna Marra and then the two-point convert by Kailynn Sikma. The points came on their first drive of the game with a little more than a minute into the game. It's likely the fastest score ever for the Hawks and possibly in the league.

The home side were leading 17 – 5 in the first half after Chloe Samson and then Kailynn Sikma added tries.

Coach Carson MacDonald said the effort was there, but the early try probably hurt more than helped the team, giving them too much confidence.

Despite the letdown, MacDonald loves his team and really appreciates how far they have come since he started coaching the team several years ago. He thinks the team will use this loss to improve, particularly on the defensive end. Thinking aloud, he said, the team has been great on defence in the first two games then really great on offence in the next two, but then hasn't been as good on either side of the ball since. He believes the team has the potential to put it all together.

The team has one game left against Cobourg before the post-season begins.

MacDonald believes the team is going to finish in the top four of the A schools for the playoffs.

At this point he is not certain about the format, whether the fourth seed plays the top seed or first will play second and third plays fourth. He's just happy for his team to have the opportunity to compete.

Red Hawks 2018 field hockey season ends in Kawartha

DARREN LUM

Staff Reporter

Dreams of a COSSA championship berth were dashed this year with a 1-nil overtime loss to the Holy Cross Hurricanes during the consolation final at the Kawartha Varsity Girls Field Hockey Championship playoffs on Tuesday, Oct. 16 in Peterborough.

The Hawks lost earlier in the day to second place Crestwood 4-1 and were regulated to the consolation final against Holy Cross.

Coach Steve Smith was happy with his team's effort in the playoffs and is optimistic for the future.

"The girls played extremely well against both Crestwood and Holy Cross. They have developed both in skill level and maturity levels. We had some injuries (broken thumb, knee ligament), which didn't help the overall morale of the team however they played with heart and never quit the entire day working through many issues," he wrote in a text message.

Smith adds this team is poised to improve next season and be contenders, as heard from opposing coaches and officials.

He adds the strength and the future of the team is attributed to the coaching staff.

"The program is strong because of the long line of dedicated coaches that have given of their time and this year is no different," he wrote. "We have two extremely dedicated coaches, Ginny Marsden and Vanessa Prentice who tirelessly give to the program and the girls love their insights and their strong desire to help the girls get better. I am fortunate to be surrounded with great staff who care deeply for the kids who come out and give their best. At the end of the day that's all I ever ask is give me your best."

The top three teams, which were the Saints of St. Peter Catholic Secondary School, Crestwood and Holy Cross, moved on to the COSSA championship this week for a chance to earn a berth to the all-provincials.

Bantam rep

This past weekend the Highland Storm Bantam Pepper Mill Steak and Pasta House hosted the Cody Hodgson Bantam Tournament at the A.J. LaRue Arena.

The Storm won their first game 2-0 against Sturgeon Lake Thunder with goals scored by Gage Hutchison and Kaine Brannigan, assisted by Kyan Hall. Stellar goaltending by Darian Maddock with his second shutout of the season. The Storm continued on to play the Campbellford Colts losing 4-1 with our lone goal scored by Dylan Keefer and assisted by Gage Hutchison. The Storm came back to win their final game of the day 2-0 to the Simcoe Blues with goals scored by Kyan Hall and Dylan Keefer. The Storm headed into Sunday in third place finding themselves up against the Sturgeon Lake Thunder winning 4-1 with goals scored by Dylan Keefer, Kyan Hall, Nick Phippen and assists by Hunter Winder and Gage Hutchison. The Storm moved on to the A finals to face the Frontenac Flyers. Storm were leading 2-0 going into the second with goals scored by Dylan Keefer, Nick Phippen and assisted by Ben Robinson and Cooper Lloyd. Giving up two short-handed goals in the second period, the Storm came back with Kyan Hall scoring another goal assisted by Ty Mills making it 3-2 heading into the third. The Storm were unable to hold back the Flyers who scored another three goals in the third period. In the final minutes of the game Ty Mills scored his first goal of the season ending the game 5-4 Frontenac. The team should be proud of their performance taking home a second place finish in the A finals of the Cody Hodgson Bantam Tournament. The fans thank you for some great hockey this weekend. Come out and support the Bantams as they face the Orono Leafs Friday, Oct. 26 at 7 p.m. at the A.J. LaRue Arena.

against the Bancroft Jets with a 3-2 win. This was an entertaining game as the Storm and Jets are evenly matched. Both teams worked aggressively hard to score and most goals occurred during a power play. The Storm grabbed a two-goal lead in the second period, however the Jets kept it interesting when they closed the gap in the third period, making it a 3-2. The Storm did their job, quieted the Jets and took the win. Next, they met with the Midland Centennials and were shut out 4-0. The Midgets were ready for the Lindsay Muskies and won 2-1. The Storm was first to score and minutes later the Muskies evened it out, ending the first period 1-1. The second period was fast and furious with the Storm team nabbing the go ahead goal. The third period was exciting and scoreless. The next day, the Midgets landed in the B pool by losing against the Woodville Hurricanes 2-1. The Midgets became the B-pool champions by battering the Bancroft Jets 5-1.

Cash Fowler. Next Colby Coumbs scored for a 6-2 lead. But with 30 seconds left Elm-vale scored and the final score was 6-3 win for the Storm.

On Sunday, the Peewees headed to Oakwood to take on Mariposa Lightning. Addison St Cyr scored a beauty tic-tac-toe goal and then minutes later scored another. There was excellent goaltending by Ethan Dobson but near the end of the first Mariposa scored and the score was 2-1 going into the second. The second period was all Mariposa but St Cyr scored a goal and right after Mariposa scored. The game was 3-2 going into the third. Storm came out on fire by keeping the puck out of their end for the majority of the period. St Cyr scored a beauty wrap-around goal with five minutes left, and just after that the puck dropped and Boylan got it to St Cyr for another goal. Then a minute later Austin Boylan scored his goal for the game. But right after the face-off Mariposa scored. With three minutes to go Mariposa scored; the game is 6-4. A minute late Mariposa scored again. Mariposa pulled their goalie. St Cyr saw the opportunity and scored. The final score 7-5 win for Storm.

Novice Rep

On Friday, Oct. 19, the Haliburton Timbermart and Hockey Haven Sports Camp Highland Storm Rep Novice team made their way to the Jack Tolhurst Memorial Tournament in Brantford. The first game saw the Storm battle the Dresden Jr. Kings, who took two goals in the first period while the Storm got their bearings. Henry Neilson scored for the Storm in the second period, but a third period goal by Dresden resulted in at 3-1 loss.

Saturday morning's game the Storm took on the Walkerton Capitals. The Capitals scored the only goal in the first period. During the second, the Storm offensive team (Evan Perrott, Max Rupnow, Matthew Scheffee, Isaac Trotter, Henry Neilson, and Luke Gruppe) responded. The Storm scored the only goal of the period (Neilson). Both the Storm (Neilson) and Capitals scored one more goal each during third period action. The Storm defence (Jaxen Casey, Ethan DeCarlo, Easton Burk, Jack Tomlinson) held strong clearing their zone. With the game tied at 2-2, Jack Tomlinson deked around several Walkerton players to score with only 41 seconds left in play. Goaltender Carter Braun demonstrated rapid skill and agility for a Storm win of 3-2.

Saturday afternoon, the Belmont Rangers took on the Storm. Belmont opened with a goal midway through the first period but with just over a minute left, Gruppe scored short-handed for the Storm, heading into the second period tied at one goal apiece. After almost a scoreless second period, Belmont dropped one in. The Storm responding only 30 seconds later with a goal of their own by Neilson. The Rangers responded with one more goal to end the second period at 3-2 in favour of Belmont. Third period play saw the Haliburton team score twice (Scheffee and Rupnow) taking the lead, but the Rangers managed to squeak out two more goals within 12 seconds of each other in final minutes to outscore the Storm 5-4.

Novice 2 Local League

On Saturday, Oct. 20, the Dwayne Simms LL Novice 2 Storm travelled to Baysville to take on Huntsville Near North. The Storm came out ready to play and quickly took a 1-0 lead with a goal from Brycen Harrison, assisted by Lyla Degeer. Less than a minute later, Mason Latanville passed to Harrison and he scored his second of the season. With three minutes left in the first, Huntsville was able to sneak one by goaltender Landyn Simms, making the score 2-1. The Storm answered back 30 seconds later as Latanville landed one in the net, assisted by Harrison. McCartney Saunders got his first of the game, unassisted, with just 20 seconds left in the first.

Saunders was quick on the first face-off of the second period and took off down the ice and buried the puck in the top corner of the net. A few minutes later Saunders found himself on another breakaway and scored his third unassisted goal of the game. Huntsville answered back with two goals. Cole Morrison snuck in his first goal of the season at the end of the second, assisted by Latanville.

The Storm continued to make their presence known as Saunders scored two more in the third, assisted by Degeer and Jacob Manning. Final score 9-3 for the Storm.

The two LL Novice teams will face off on Saturday, Oct. 27 at 11 a.m. in Wilberforce.

Atom 2 Local League

On Saturday, Oct. 20 the TD Canada Trust LL 2 Atom team headed to Baysville to take on the Huntsville Little Caesar Peeewe team. During the first period with a back and forth battle against each other Ethan Rowe was able to find the boards with a nice pass up to Logan Reid. With the duo of Reid and Casey-Russel finding their passing Reid took the shot and sure enough Russel was there to initialize the rebound. Minutes later Zach Lowe was able to clear the puck from his own net with a nice pass right to Bryant Medlar. Medlar was able to skate up the boards and chip up a pass to Reid for another Storm goal.

During the second with Carson Jones battling against one of the biggest defences, Jones won his battle and was able to pass it up to Casey-Russel, and the duo of Russel and Reid were at their passing again which resulted in Reid's second goal of the game. However due to the persistence of Huntsville the Storm lost their game 13-3. Next game is in Gravenhurst against Parry Sound at 12:20.

Midget 2 Local League

On Oct. 19 the Total Site Services LL Midget 2 team showed up for an early Saturday morning game in Parry Sound. The game started out with a fast paced first period with no goals. Goals started for both teams in the second period and Hunter Arnott scored with an assist to Tyler Martin and Cody Martin. Parry Sound jumped into the game with a couple of goals then Caden Little scored with assists to Zach Davis and Cody Martin. Parry Sound came back with three unanswered goals in the third to win 5-2. Exceptional goaltending by Damon Harriss. On Oct. 21 the Total Site Services LL Midget team played South Muskoka-Muskoka Kia at S.G. Nesbitt Arena in Minden. Muskoka Kia took the first period with three unanswered goals. Total Site Services' lone goal in the second period scored by Hunter Arnott with assists to Simon Cloutier-Austin and Tyler Martin. Atoms

This past weekend the Ridgewood Ford and Castle Cottage Country Building Supplies Atom A team travelled south to Brantford for the annual Jack Tolhurst Memorial Tournament. The Storm got straight to work with Austin Latanville scoring the first goal for the team assisted by Caleb Manning to start the second versus the Dresden Jr. Kings. The final buzzer sounded with a 5-1 score. Game 2 vs the Walkerton Capitals was off to another hard start. The Storm Atoms found themselves in penalty trouble once again with three penalties leading to another power-play goal. Deciding to not leave the second period scoreless, Liam Harrison managed to net one assisted by Owen Sisson and Josh Scheffee. On Saturday evening the Storm hit the ice versus the South West

Bullets. Our Atoms seemed to get into a groove following Jace Mills's initial tally from a crazy angle. What turned out to be a game reminiscent of a western gun fight Storm defenceman Toby Posti blocked a total of six shots in the game much to the delight of netminder Chase Winder who was left to fend off many more. The third began equally strong with the Storm building a lead to 4-2 with goals by Latanville, Mills and Scheffee while relentlessly keeping the puck out of their zone sending the Bullets chasing in their end. Following this spirited win the Atoms left the tournament on a high note with the score being indicative of their hard work. It seemed to click on the third and final game and we commend them for their efforts! Catch these young players in action at A.J. LaRue this upcoming weekend during the annual Matt Duchene tournament starting on Saturday morning game times at 8 a.m., noon and 4 p.m.

Atoms Local League

On Sunday, the GJ Burtch LL-Atoms hosted the Huntsville McDonald's LL-Atoms at the S.G. Nesbitt Arena in Minden. The Storm got off to a slow start giving up three goals in the first period. The second saw a Huntsville player hauled down on his way to the net resulting in a penalty shot. Jacob Lloyd kicked out his toe to make a miraculous save. Keeping the game at 5-0. Lloyd's save seemed to be a turning point, as suddenly the Storm was all over McDonald's.

In the third the Storm's hard work throughout the game began to pay off. First it was Maxime Little setting up Isaac Borgdorff for a beautiful one-timer and his first of the season. Next up, Eric Mueller's hard work against the boards got him the puck and an assist on Jacob Davis's second goal in as many games. Then it was Mueller again battling against the boards that sent Taylor Mulock into McDonald's end. Mulock found Borgdorff in front of the net resulting in his second goal. Olivia Gruppe helped out her team by dropping back to defence for the game and did a great job clearing the front of the net and patrolling the blue line. Unfortunately the slow start would be the Storm's downfall. 5-3 final for McDonald's.

Next up for the GJ Burtch Atoms is an exhibition home and home vs Bancroft in Wilberforce at 1 p.m. on Saturday and in Bancroft on Sunday at 1:30 p.m.

Come together to watch Still Standing community news

wilberforce

Hilda Clark
448-2018

Many in this area are looking forward to a special episode of Still Standing – the one featuring Jonny Harris and his visit and filming in Wilberforce in spring of 2017. It will be on TV at 8 p.m. and at a special screening at the Lloyd Watson Centre on Tuesday, Oct. 30 that begins at 7 p.m.

So do plan to gather at our community centre and experience together what Jonny and the CBC crew finally put together about our village. It will be interesting to see how we are seen as Still Standing.

The Community Cooks will be there with refreshments and there will be a raffle of home baking so bring along a little cash.

The local book club meets this Wednesday at 6:30 at the library since the last Wednesday of the month is Halloween.

A trip to the Stratford Festival this past week was very entertaining. Managed to enjoy six amazing productions. Good to see women playing roles usually performed by men. Among those were Seana McKenna who played Julius Caesar in that play and Martha Henry was Prospero in The Tempest. Napoli Millionaria, new to Canada, was a hit. Great to experience all the dancing and songs in Music Man. Oscar Wilde's An Ideal Husband took one back to 1895 London – and what sets! The staging of Coriolanus was strangely and captivatingly modern for a play set in ancient Rome.

Though it is near season end at the festival most performances were packed. An extra bonus was being there with hundreds of students attending. And what fine audiences they were.

Also had a good visit one morning to the Stratford Perth Museum. Always a good reminder of the past there as an industrial centre as well a farming area. Thanks to Barb Schofield who led that tour.

Restoration project begins

A section of a new culvert is installed at Gould's Crossing on Tuesday, Oct. 16 in Haliburton. This is part of the multi-phase Gould's Creek Brook Trout Restoration Project, which includes the installation of a new culvert upstream at Gould's Crossing and the transformation of the creek area as well as a documentary about the process. This project covers some 1.5 kilometres and is possible thanks to the Department of Fisheries and Ocean's Recreational Fisheries Conservation Partnership Program grant; the Great Lakes Stewardship Fund; assistance from industry professionals and the support of the community including the Casey family and Fowler Construction. Read upcoming issues of the Haliburton Echo for details in the weeks to come. /DARREN LUM Staff

Delta takes over PineStone management

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

The PineStone parking lot was full for the first time in months as nearly 100 staff members gathered on Friday to find out whether their jobs were secure now that Delta Hotels has taken over management of the county's largest resort.

Last week, the independent local resort and Canada's largest privately-owned hotel chain signed a management agreement. Ownership has not changed hands, but Delta will have complete authority over the PineStone's daily and long-term affairs.

"PineStone started from nothing and grew to the size it is now all on its own. To grow further we needed to join someone with a wider range of clientele and Delta certainly has that expertise," says Joe Melara, principal shareholder and president of One 2 One Corporation, which owns the PineStone, in an interview with The Echo.

The one question on many people's minds is whether Delta will bring in its own staff. Melara says

'Very few local jobs will be affected. They haven't come up here with the idea of a wholesale tradeout' that in the coming weeks, all staff will be interviewed by Delta. "If Delta feels they're capable of handling the job, they'll definitely be asked to continue. One or two (senior) positions may be changed or shifted. These one or two people won't be happy but it won't be a major shake-up."

Very few jobs will be affected. They haven't come up here with the idea of a wholesale tradeout.

General Manager Darcy McKittrick has left the PineStone to become a business associate with Rethink in Peterborough, which provides consulting services to various tourist businesses. One 2 One thanked him for his dedication to the PineStone and wished him well in his new position.

Senior jobs will be posted in Delta's other hotels — such as Mountain Inn in Whistler, B.C., Meadowvale in Mississauga, and Delta Orlando and Key Largo — to open up the positions to all Delta employees. Likewise, when jobs come up at the other Delta resorts, PineStone staff will be given the opportunity to apply.

"Delta will undoubtedly come with its own plan," Melara says.

The present management structure may remain or be changed. "The employees felt fairly relieved," he says of the atmosphere at Friday's staff meeting. He was "dumbfounded" to see the number of workers who were interested in being part of the future team. "I've been to weddings where there were less people."

Along with the change in name, to better reflect its role, PineStone is now the PineStone Resort and Conference Centre.

Programs on hold as county cuts budget

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

County councillors rolled up their sleeves to tackle the 1992 budget, and the sweet fruit of their labour was a two-thirds reduction in the percentage increase.

On Tuesday morning, the 17 reeves and deputy-reeves were faced with a 14 percent increase. By Friday afternoon, they had pared it down to less than five percent. But it wasn't easy, and only the essential departments emerged unscathed.

"There's mixed emotions (about the cuts) but the consensus is we've got to stop and re-gain direction," said Warden George Simmons in an interview Sunday. "The way we're going now, dollars and cents wise, we just haven't got it. . . Haliburton County is going to take a stance until the provincial government gives us guidelines."

The county has decided to put the Official Plan and waste management on hold for a year. When it started work on the OP almost two years ago — at the urging of Queen's Park — provincial funding was 50 percent. On Tuesday, council was told not to expect more than $50,000, a small fraction of the total cost.

By spending the next year figuring out just where to go with the OP, when work resumes, progress should be faster, Simmons said.

With waste management, the Ministry of the Environment has recommended a time-out to get the county's bearings straight.

However, there will be funding of the Public Liaison Committee to try to streamline and encourage municipal recycling efforts.

The budgets for social services — over which the county has little control — and Hyland Crest will remain virtually as presented. More money will be spent on the Chamber of Commerce and roads.

The three-year plan is to have budget increases of zero to two percent a year to match the growth of the tax base. As well, in three years the Chamber is expected to be self-sufficient, working under a

School debate heats up at council level

by MARK PUBLICOVER
Staff Reporter

The issue of school accommodation in Haliburton County is not cooling off.

It's getting hotter.

The school board's recently announced plan to alleviate current and future overcrowding in the county's schools has drawn criticism from parents and taxpayers who feel they have not had enough input into the decision and it was also the topic of discussion at two municipal council meetings last week.

"The board doesn't seem to feel that they have to be answerable to anyone," Stanhope Deputy-reeve Eleanor Harrison said at that township's meeting Wednesday. "People want more information and in my opinion, the board just hasn't sold (their plan)."

Harrison and Councillor Jim Hicks attended a meeting held by Anson, Hindon and Minden council on February 19 where AHM trustees heard the concerns of residents. Harrison said she felt a presentation made by Minden residents Doug Campbell and Bryan Kernohan was well done and made some valid points.

"I talked to (Stanhope trustee) LeRoy (Eager) about the issue and he praised the work done by Kernohan and Campbell but indicated that he felt the board made the right decision," Harrison said. "I think that's about all we can do because I have to question whether a municipal council has the right to interfere with school board matters."

AHM council, however, feel they haven't done enough.

Kernohan and Campbell addressed Thursday's council meeting and said they felt their proposal to build a new school in Minden wasn't given enough consideration.

"Few people know the power that rests in the hands of the board of education," Kernohan said. "They are answerable to no one." He felt trustees have "inadequate information for the decisions they're trying to make."

In response to their concerns, AHM Reeve Bern Berry proposed that another meeting be held for representatives of all county municipalities on March 16.

"I think it is important to meet with them to explain the need for restraint and proper planning," he said.

Campbell told council that he

Harry Good reads a Florida newspaper on the exodus of companies fed up with Canada's costs

Go South frustrated Canadian businesses

by MARK PUBLICOVER
Staff Reporter

Frostbitten Canadians have been making the annual migration to sunny Florida for years, but the current downturn in our economy and political uncertainty are leading more and more of us to make the trip not to vacation, but to do business.

"It's cheaper for people to live in Florida for the winter months than to live in Canada," says Haliburton's Dr. Harry Good, who makes the southward pilgrimage annually. "And I can't blame businesses for moving there because it's cheaper for them, too."

Dr. Good, 73, has been practising in Haliburton for 40 years. He says the difference in Canadian prices and U.S. prices is becoming more noticeable every year and that has South Florida business-generating organizations rubbing their hands.

A recent article in The Miami Herald entitled 'State lures Canadian investors' outlined how Florida is benefitting from the uncertainty Canadians have about their economy and their government.

Business writer Gus Carlson quotes one South Florida Economic Development representative as saying Canadians don't need much convincing to move their money south these days.

"We've noticed a very significant increase in the level of frustration (in Toronto),"

Wielding a screwdriver, man holds up clerk at Mike's Milk

by MARK PUBLICOVER
Staff Reporter

A man armed with a screwdriver robbed Mike's Milk in Haliburton Sunday night of $300 in cash as it was about to close for the evening.

Minden OPP Const. Mike Maybee said the man demanded money from the lone clerk, who offered no resistance and handed over the money at 10:55 p.m. The OPP are looking for a slim man, between 5'2" and 5'4" who was wearing a dark blue ski jacket, blue jeans, blue or black gloves and a dark blue ski mask at the time of the robbery.

Maybee said it is important to comply with a thief's demands in this type of a situation as a confrontation could result in the loss of more than just money.

"People should keep small amounts of money on hand in their stores," he said. "They should always be wary of people in their store and call the OPP if they anticipate anything like this happening."

Photographer Bill Ivy must cancel his Thursday night presentation

The Haliburton Horticultural Society is disappointed to announce that Bill Ivy will be unable to speak at Thursday's meeting.

The well-known photographer and author, who has a cottage in Haliburton County, is under doctor's orders not to move because of a bad back.

Because the cancellation came so close to the meeting, the Society has yet to confirm who will be speaking on Thursday. However, the meeting will still be held at the Haliburton United Church as planned.

Ivy has been re-scheduled to present his slide show in November.
